Title of Meeting: Postgraduate Programmes and Courses NEP Syllabus Meeting 1

Purpose of Meeting:

1. To orient and acquaint the staff with the immediate requirement to frame the Postgraduate NEP syllabi, as communicated and requested by the University of Mumbai (Pro-Vice Chancellor, his Office and Team).
2. To answer any questions and provide clarifications as needed. To note whether any questions require answers from the Pro-VC's team.
3. To initiate a healthy dialogue and discussion about the urgent upcoming task of framing the Postgraduate NEP syllabi.

Meeting Minutes:

The meeting started with a small prayer.

Next, Prof. Bakshi welcomed everyone and appreciated their making time for the meeting. She announced that we were meeting to explain and discuss everything about the immediate requirement to frame the Postgraduate NEP syllabi, as communicated and (urgently) requested by the University of Mumbai (Pro-Vice Chancellor, his Office and Team).

Background: Prof. Bakshi explained that the Pro-Vice Chancellor's Office had contacted her yesterday and asked her to come and meet the Pro-VC and his team for the NEP curriculum revision work. Prof. Bakshi and Ms. Cheryl Machado had met the Pro-VC Prof. Bhamare, Dean Prof. Kavita Laghate, other members of Bhamare Sir's team late last afternoon, and Deputy Registrar Ms. Sanjana Sawant, with regard to the NEP-2020 curricular revision. Prof. Bakshi had been asked about the NEP-2020 curricular revision for Home Science programmes. Prof. Bakshi had explained that as per the decision of the University of Mumbai, only autonomous colleges were to implement the NEP-2020 new syllabi in the 2023-2024 academic year. The Pro-VC and his team clarified that that was indeed so for undergraduate programmes. However, NEP-2020 Postgraduate syllabus had to be implemented in this academic year, and that included both the University PG Departments and affiliated colleges like Nirmala Niketan College of Home Science. Most departments and colleges were contacted in late June /early July 2023 and were in the process of finalising their MA/MSc/MCom first year NEP syllabi. Home Science had been left out of the loop, and we were now to submit the new syllabus for Semester 1 this week. Although we (Home Science) were starting late, the commencement of new NEP PG programmes was to be uniform across the university and therefore we had to catch up with the other programmes and have our NEP-2020 syllabi ready on an urgent, highest priority basis. The University had asked for it to be ready within the following few days, and Prof. Bakshi had negotiated a week.

Questions/Clarifications:

1. Ms. Sunita Jaiswal and Dr. Roopa Rao asked the following question: Does CRM need to participate in the current syllabus framing work as the Master's programme in CRM is yet to be approved and started? Prof. Bakshi replied that she had discussed this with the Pro-VC and his team, and their recommendation was that the Department of CRM can frame their syllabi as per the NEP format and requirements and that there was a likelihood that this new NEP syllabi would be passed by the Board of Deans, followed by the University's Academic Council and Management Council. However, the title of the MSc in CRM should be Community Resource Management and

College of Home Science, Nirmala Niketan
49, New Marine Lines, Mumbai 400020
Affiliated to University of Mumbai
NAAC Accredited 'A+' Grade

"Ergonomics" must not be in the title of this MSc programme. Ms. Sunita and Dr. Roopa readily agreed to frame the NEP syllabus for an MSc in Community Resource Management. Prof. Bakshi thanked them for their enthusiasm and commitment for the prospective MSc in CRM.

2. Dr. Goyal and Prof. Vishaka asked about two self-financed MSc TFT programmes that had been designed earlier and for which approval had not been granted to the college. They too expressed their alacrity in framing the NEP syllabi for these two prospective programmes. Prof. Bakshi appreciated their motivation and interest in framing the NEP syllabi for these two prospective MSc programmes but gently recommended that as CRM did not have any MSc programme in the college, it would be best to propose only the MSc CRM prospective programme right now, so as to increase the likelihood of obtaining approval for this MSc in due course. Previously, when three prospective MSc programmes (one CRM and two TFT) had been proposed simultaneously, the college had been denied approval to run the programmes, with one of the cited reasons being infrastructure.
3. Ms. Payal and Ms. Fatima inquired whether we could request the University to provide us more time to devote to framing the NEP syllabi. Prof. Bakshi explained that it was nearing the end of August and although we already had our MSc programmes up and running, it was only the NEP syllabi which was now to be delivered, and any further delay would (greatly) negatively impact the college academic calendar. Moreover, Prof. Bakshi shared that she had already requested the University for more time and that the Pro-VC had urged that it was imperative that we framed the NEP syllabi immediately.

Process: The process was shared by Prof. Bakshi.

Our respected VC, Prof. Kulkarni, had translated and chaired the implementation of NEP-2020 University curricula for the entire State of Maharashtra. VC Prof. Kulkarni had drawn up a model template for the PG programmes of the University of Mumbai. This template was shared by Prof. Laghate with Prof. Bakshi, and all aspects explained. We were to follow this template and design our NEP-2020 revised syllabi for all the Nirmala Niketan Home Science PG programmes. After internal quality assurance checks for curricular revision, led by Department Heads/IQAC Coordinator and members, and chaired by Prof. Bakshi, our syllabi would next be checked by Prof. Laghate of Pro-VC team and by Deputy Registrar, Ms. Sanjana Sawant. After approval, it would be passed through the Council of Deans and be put up in AC/MC meetings.

Task Ahead: The task ahead was stated by Prof. Bakshi.

The designing and framing of NEP-2020 curricula for all our current Postgraduate programmes and one prospective MSc programme as listed below.

Current PG Programmes

1. MSc Home Science in Foods, Nutrition and Dietetics (Aided) (Current Branch IA)
2. MSc Home Science in Food Processing and Preservation (Self-Financed) (Current Branch IB)
3. MSc Home Science in Sports Nutrition (Self-Financed) (Current Branch IC)
4. MSc Home Science in Human Development (Aided) (Current Branch II)
5. MSc Home Science in Textile and Fashion Technology (Aided) (Current Branch III)
6. PGD in Dietetics and Applied Nutrition (Self-Financed)

Prospective PG Programme

1. MSc Home Science in Community Resource Management (Self-Financed)

Department Heads were to have Department meetings, involve all full-time teachers in the curricular revision, reflect on and frame the Programme Outcomes, and start out first with mapping the courses across four semesters, and next to detailing the courses in the first semester.

Logistics: Dr. Avani, Dr. Goyal and Ms. Rhonda clarified that this task clearly required prioritisation such that classes would need to be rearranged and rescheduled. It was decided that PG Year 1 (MSc and PGD) students would be provided educationally enriching assignments to complete, and that UG classes would be rescheduled with more of the Visiting Faculty taking their classes for the time being. MSc2 students could be provided with more time to do their dissertation work.

Opportunity: Prof. Bakshi reiterated that we must view this as a golden and much-awaited opportunity to revise our curricula. We have had FDPs on NEP-2020, POs and COs, on graduate attributes, industry readiness of our graduates, and related topics. We have been noting and documenting the feedback on our programmes and courses as part of our IQAC work and internally motivated exercises. We have been keeping abreast of the latest developments in the varied fields that are under the umbrella of Home Science. Here was our opportunity to add courses related to the latest trends, to rectify gaps if any, to once again tailor our programmes and courses to meet global (global competence and local relevance) needs.

Ms. Vibha Hasija expressed her enthusiasm and shared that she had many ideas. Dr. Goyal and Ms. Payal also expressed that they had many ideas about how the programmes in TFT/HD could be adapted and revised.

Blank and Sample Templates/Curricula:

Prof. Bakshi explained every aspect of the blank template for PG NEP syllabi as provided by the Deputy Registrar, Ms. Sawant. Prof. Bakshi answered all questions relating to this template, including the following: naming, eligibility and other particulars of programmes; framing of learning outcomes (POs); the breakup of a programme's course structure into major (mandatory/core and elective courses), Research Methods, and OJT/FP; credits and number of teaching/student workload hours for theory vs. practical subjects; format for each course, the internal and external evaluation, and so on.

Two sample filled (completed) templates were shared by Prof. Bakshi, as examples. One shared by the Deputy Registrar and the other shared by Prof. Satishchandra Kumar, Head, Department of Applied Psychology, UoM. Prof. Satish is also our external CDC member.

Further Discussion:

Eligibility of the current six PG programmes was discussed in detail. Ideas were discussed to revise our eligibility (if needed) to ensure that our eligibility criteria respected academic flexibility as outlined in NEP-2020.

Ideas were shared and discussed by Prof. Bakshi and others about how to balance the staff workload whilst fully ensuring that we adhered to the required template. Designing practical courses where students undertook guided, yet meaningful autonomous self-directed work was one of the options discussed.

In this regard, an important decision made was that Research Methods in Home Science and Statistics in Home Science would be offered as common subjects across aided programmes (n=3), and across self-financed programmes (n=3), and that the teaching of modules would be divided across the departments.

Conclusion:

Prof. Bakshi requested Ms. Cheryl, Senior Clerk, General Office, to ensure that the General Office would provide all back-end support to the teachers for the curriculum revision. Ms. Cheryl ensured that that would be done.

Prof. Bakshi once again thanked every member for the healthy dialogue and discussion, their positive energy, and their clear commitment to the curriculum revision. She expressed gratitude for being blessed with such competent and committed staff members. She reminded everyone about the timelines and her own ready availability to brainstorm, discuss, and approve the mapping of courses and changes proposed by each department and team. Prof. Bakshi stated that she had full faith in the ability of the staff to rise to this challenge and optimise this wonderful opportunity to rework the PG curriculum as per NEP 2020 and the college vision and mission.

Title of Meeting: Postgraduate Programmes and Courses NEP Syllabus Meeting 2

Purpose of Meeting:

1. To ensure that the mapping of the courses for the MSc programmes across the four semesters takes into account the early exit option after Year 1.
2. To discuss any other questions/concerns related to the designing of the NEP PG curricula.

Meeting Minutes:

The meeting started with a small prayer.

Next, Prof. Bakshi welcomed everyone and appreciated their excellent continuing work on the designing of the new NEP PG curricula.

Prof. Bakshi drew everyone's attention to the early exit option after Semesters 1 and 2 of the MSc Programme. After Year 1 (i.e., Semesters I & II) of MSc, students could exit the programme with a PG Diploma. Also, once the four year degree came into effect, students would only enrol in Year 2 (i.e., currently Semesters III & IV) of MSc, and effectively complete their MSc in one year.

Next, Prof. Bakshi raised the question: How does this impact the mapping of courses across the current four semesters?

In case, for example, a programme has four core areas A, B, C, D.

In the Human Development department as also in others, currently the following is the mapping of these areas across the four semesters:

Semester I	Semester II	Semester III	Semester IV
A1	A2	C1	C2	No exit
B1	B2	D1	D2	Exit with an MSc Degree

In other words, if we use the above, a student who exits after the first two semesters will have no MSc-learning of areas C and D, and later a student who comes from another university into Year 2 after four years of an undergraduate degree programme, would have no MSc-learning of areas A and B.

Therefore, the new mapping would be as follows:

Semester I	Semester II	Semester III	Semester IV
A1	C1	A2	C2	Early Exit with a PG Diploma
B1	D1	B2	D2	Exit with an MSc Degree

The new mapping would ensure that a PG Diploma student would have had MSc-learning of all core areas at the end of the year. Moreover, a PG Diploma student from such a programme would be distinguished from the MSc graduate who would have even more specialised and advanced learning in these cores.

Teachers discussed the implications for the programmes that they were designing and agreed to make the necessary changes in the mapping right away.

Also discussed on 28-08-2023:

1. Prof. Bakshi asked everyone to name the programmes as per the request of the Deputy Registrar, UoM:
Examples provided as follows:
MSc (Home Science — Foods, Nutrition and Dietetics)
MSc (Home Science — Human Development)
MSc (Home Science — Textile and Fashion Technology)

Prof. Bakshi reminded everyone to change the programme name and insert in each syllabus

2. Reminder from Dr. Goyal and Prof. Bakshi that a footnote was to be added for the grid layout for each Semester:
*Curriculum will be supplemented by Extension Work and Educational Trips for experiential learning.

3. As recommended by Dr. Goyal and endorsed by Prof. Bakshi: Also, please consider Apprenticeship where possible.

Dr Pratima Goyal (HOD) coordinated with Sr Nattie of Sakhya. Dr Neha Mulchandani and Ms Vibhuti Khedekar accompanied students for the extension activity.

The extension activity was held on 29th and 30th January 2024. The journey started by boarding a local train. After reaching Saphale, students were divided in two groups as there were two villages-Umarpada and Naroda with a total 35- 40 beneficiaries.

The two groups adhered to the schedule for the day with utmost diligence. On 29th, first day of extension activity, an introduction round was held for rapport building with the beneficiaries.

The program commenced with an introduction to the planned activities. Following activities were conducted for the beneficiaries.

Tie-dye on cotton dupattas: The first activity involved tie-dye on cotton dupattas, wherein participants were taught different tying techniques using different materials like thread, clips, rubber band, beads etc. along with a comprehensive explanation of the procedure. As per prior discussions, arrangement of the raw material was carried in Mumbai and the payment was done by the center. Following the explanation, the tied dupattas were immersed in a dye bath for 40 minutes. The dyed dupattas were removed, tied again and the process was repeated for a second color. The most anticipated moment was the reveal of the dyed color on dupattas. The participants eagerly awaited the outcome, and the dupattas turned out to be beautiful, with colors of yellow and rose pink.

Stencil printing on T-shirts: The students created stencils, taught the beneficiaries the process, and demonstrated it to them. The activity was enjoyed by all.

Envelope making and printing: The third activity was envelope making and printing. The participants were taught various techniques such as rose printing with plastic bags, eco printing with leaves and flowers, and thread art. The products that resulted from the activity were awe-inspiring as many creative techniques were discovered in the process. The beneficiaries were content with their creative work. The first day ended with successful and colorful results with everyone satisfied with themselves, students, teachers as well as participants.

Block Printing on pillow cases and stoles: On the second day, beautiful pillow covers and dupattas were block printed with various combinations of blocks. The beneficiaries were taught block printing using pigments and binders on pillow cases and stoles.

Jewelry making: Jewelry making was taught from scrap fabrics. The focus was to teach the concept of sustainability and eco friendliness. Students explained how these scraps can be converted into something valuable and sellable.

Fabric and yarn tassels: Lastly students taught how to make fabric tassels and yarn tassels after which dyed samples were opened and all the items made were displayed on the table. The participants were delighted to learn these new things and appreciated each moment with all the students. At the end of the program, the products were displayed for the NGO with whom we collaborated (Sr Natty and her team), who appreciated the hard work of the students and participants. The second day of the program ended successfully, with amazing and positive feedback. The staff of the centers worked tirelessly to organize the two-day program, and the learners of the tribal villages invested their time in learning new skills. The program was successful due to the support of the teachers at the centers, as well as the authorities who worked behind the scenes to provide this opportunity.

Beneficiaries/ Participants and number: 31 students (29 girls and 2 boys)

Staff: In-house 2

Students: In-house 6 students of MSc II (TFT)

The annual extension Activity conducted at Gyanjyoti Community College, Karajgoan proved to be a rich and immersive experience. Upon arrival, the centre in-charge, Sister Clara introduced the beneficiaries to the teachers and MSc II students of Department of Textile and Fashion Technology. After a good breakfast, an ice breaking session commenced, where the students interacted with the beneficiaries and played interactive games. The skill-sharing followed this session where the beneficiaries were provided insights into the diverse range of garments available in the market.

Following this introductory session, the beneficiaries were taught the drafting process for a kaftan kurta. Students took turns to explain the drafting, placement and the stitching procedures under the guidance of the two teachers . The language of instruction was in their local Marathi to facilitate better understanding. Each step in drafting was complete with visual aids by drawing the draft on the board. It was encouraging to see the beneficiaries follow along eagerly and quickly. This session was followed by the drafting of the palazzo pant that the students swiftly grasped. After lunch, both the kaftan kurtas and palazzo pant drafts were completed, and the students then started the stitching of the kaftan by late afternoon and completed the process in a couple of hours. The evening was spent again in interacting with the beneficiaries. Dinner was followed by a cultural exchange programme, where the beneficiaries and students sang and danced.

The next day started early as the students had to leave for Mumbai. After a brief revision of the sewing process, it was heartening to see the excellent stitching and finishing skills of the beneficiaries coupled with great speed and precision. The beneficiaries completed the pant in the first half of the day after which a small display was held to showcase their work.

The rural extension trip not only enriched beneficiaries with practical skills, but also imparted invaluable lessons in communication, adaptability, and gratitude in our students. It served as a poignant reminder of the transformative power of education and the joy of shared learning experiences.
