Street Play: Save Food

The street play segment saw the participation of 15 talented individuals who took to the stage with a powerful performance centered around the theme of saving food. Their act was not only informative but also deeply moving, effectively highlighting the importance of food conservation in today's world.

Powada Singing

Ms Janhvi Karmekar led the Powada singing segment, captivating the audience with her performance that shed light on social evil practices. Powada is a traditional Marathi form of singing that narrates historical events in an inspirational manner. Through her performance, Ms Janhvi brought attention to the pressing need to fight against social evils that still plague our society.

Elocution: Save Food: Ms Kameshwari Mangipudi spearheaded the elocution segment, eloquently speaking on the theme of saving food. Her speech was insightful, drawing attention to the global issue of food wastage and the steps individuals can take to mitigate this problem. Her persuasive words inspired many to think more consciously about their food consumption habits.

Creative Writing: The creative writing competition saw Ms Aafiya Shaikh winning 2nd place with her compelling piece on the theme of saving food. Her work stood out for its creativity and the impactful message it conveyed, emphasizing the critical need for food conservation in both local and global contexts.

Poster Making: In the poster making segment, two participants, including Ms Tahira Ticlo and Ms Amatullah Filewala, used their artistic skills to create visually striking posters that communicated the importance of the themes addressed at the fest. Their artwork served as a powerful visual reminder of the fest's core messages, drawing in the audience with its creativity and clarity.

In Conclusion

The Udaan Fest was a successful event that not only showcased the diverse talents of its participants but also served as a platform for raising awareness about important social issues. Through street plays, singing, elocution, creative writing, and poster making, the participants effectively communicated the urgent need to save food and fight against social evils. Their efforts were a testament to the power of youth engagement in addressing and spreading awareness about societal challenges.
