Nitesh M. Soni (TYB Sc 2024)

Internship Report at Sushrut Hospital

I, Nitesh M. Soni (TYB Sc 2024) did an internship at Sushrut Hospital, Chembur from 1st June 2023 to 2nd July 2024. During my internship at Sushrut Hospital, I gained hands-on experience in clinical nutrition and dietetics. This opportunity allowed me to apply theoretical knowledge in real-life settings, helping patients manage their conditions through tailored diet plans.

Key Activities:

- Accompanied the assistant dietitian for rounds in the ICU and other departments.
- Conducted nutritional assessments for patients with diverse medical conditions like diabetes, renal disorders, and cardiovascular diseases.
- Designed and implemented therapeutic diets under the guidance of senior dietitians.
- Counseled patients and their families on dietary modifications and healthy eating habits.
- Assisted in managing hospital food services, ensuring adherence to prescribed diets and hygiene standards.

Key Learnings:

- Improved my skills in diet planning, patient counseling, and time management.
- Developed a deeper understanding of the role of diet in managing medical conditions.

INTERNSHIP REPORT

Hospital: St. Elizabeth Hospital
Internship Period: 13th June to 13th July
Supervisor: Dr. Kavita Bhalia, Dietitian

During my one-month internship at St. Elizabeth Hospital under the guidance of Dr. Kavita Bhalia, I had the opportunity to gain valuable hands-on experience in the field of clinical nutrition and dietetics. This internship was a practical extension of my academic knowledge and allowed me to develop a deeper understanding of patient-centered care and dietary management.

Throughout the internship, I learned how to read and analyze blood reports, which played a crucial role in understanding patients' health conditions. This skill enabled me to identify abnormalities such as anemia, diabetes, and other nutrient deficiencies, providing the foundation for dietary planning. I also gained experience in diagnosing diseases based on patients' symptoms, learning to connect clinical observations with potential health conditions. This understanding was instrumental in tailoring effective dietary interventions.

One of the significant aspects of my training was conducting dietary recall sessions with patients. These sessions involved assessing their nutritional intake and identifying deficiencies or areas for improvement. Based on this data, I provided on-the-spot diet recommendations that were practical and sustainable for the patients to follow. This process helped me understand the importance of adaptability and personalized care in achieving better health outcomes.

Additionally, I undertook two detailed case studies during my internship. For each case, I analyzed the patient's condition, devised comprehensive dietary plans. These cases involved managing conditions like diabetes and hypertension, and I ensured that the dietary interventions were therapeutic and suited to the patients' specific needs. These case studies not only enhanced my analytical and planning skills but also gave me a sense of accomplishment in contributing to patient health improvement.

Overall, my internship at St. Elizabeth Hospital was an enriching experience. Under Dr. Kavita Bhalia's expert guidance, I developed essential skills in clinical nutrition, patient interaction, and diet planning. This experience has strengthened my foundation in the field of dietetics.
