About the Event (Event Flow, if available):	Aarohan – Aspiring to Achieve - Interior Design And Related Careers Alumnae Interaction Event Invited Alumnae - Profiles: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Tulsi Barshikar: A graduate of College of Home Science Nirmala Niketan, and Rachna Sansad, Tulsi’s passion for art, particularly in oils and charcoal, has guided her career in the arts. During the event, she highlighted how NN instilled confidence and encouraged her to embrace challenges fully. Her message inspired students to value resilience and to pursue creative ambitions. ● Anvi Desai: Anvi’s expertise spans across interior design, from hand-drawn sketches to 2D CAD and Photoshop rendering. Known for precision and a keen eye for aesthetics, Anvi shared the importance of meticulous attention to detail in the industry. Her session reinforced the value of commitment to excellence, urging students to refine their technical skills. ● Urvashi Jain: With a background in interior and graphic design, Urvashi transitioned to mandala art, which she has practiced since 2019. Her journey demonstrated the potential for diversification in creative careers, encouraging students to explore various forms of self-expression within and beyond traditional design paths. ● Hemangi Vira: Currently a junior designer at ADL Group, Hemangi graduated from NN and pursued further studies at Raffles Design International. She discussed the dynamics of working in a professional design firm, emphasizing adaptability and the collaborative nature of design projects, which resonated with aspiring designers in attendance. ● Fatema Motiwala: As a postgraduate student of Landscape Architecture at Birmingham City University, Fatema’s dedication

	to harmonizing built and natural environments was evident. She inspired students to consider sustainability and ecological impact in design, highlighting the importance of responsible design practices. These sessions provided invaluable industry insights, exposing students to diverse career pathways and the realities of the design profession. Alumnae shared both technical advice and personal stories, creating a relatable and motivational environment for current students. Organizing Aarohan strengthened students' skills in event management, communication, and networking. Handling logistics and moderating discussions fostered confidence and professional poise, preparing them for future roles in the hospitality and design industries. This event was not only an opportunity to gain knowledge but also a stepping stone toward developing professional relationships and honing essential industry skills.
