About the Event (Event Flow, if available):	As part of the practical course "Events in the Hospitality Industry," nine TYCRM (Hospitality Elective) organized an informal event on Saturday, 4th November 2023 from 2.00 – 5.30 pm. Planning, organizing, and conducting this informal gathering was a learning opportunity demonstrating students' organizational capabilities, teamwork, and creativity. The informal event organized by the final-year students as part of their hospitality industry coursework was an impressive showcase of their planning and teamwork skills. It provided a platform for students to apply their classroom knowledge in a real-world setting, demonstrating essential qualities for their future careers in hospitality. They also approached sponsors who paid for 20 women from the Family Welfare Centre to attend the event. This act changed the event for a social cause. Event Flow on the Day: The event began with a lively welcome session, where students greeted guests and set a warm, inviting atmosphere. Following the introductions, students outlined the purpose of the gathering, emphasizing its role in applying their learning to a practical event setup. The day proceeded with a series of interactive sessions, including engaging icebreaker activities that fostered a sense of community among attendees. A variety of themed activities, games, and performances kept the momentum high, with students rotating through different roles—host, coordinator, and facilitator—enhancing their multitasking skills. The latter part of the event included a refreshment break where students showcased their service and food presentation abilities. The day concluded with an appreciation ceremony, where organizers and participants shared feedback, providing students with constructive insights into their planning and execution. Skills and Experiences Gained: Throughout the event, students displayed strong organizational and interpersonal skills. The experience challenged them to manage time effectively, adapt quickly to changing situations, and maintain a positive attitude under pressure. Their roles in

	guest engagement and activity coordination strengthened their communication skills, fostering a deeper understanding of audience engagement in hospitality. Additionally, the event highlighted the importance of teamwork, as students collaborated to ensure the event ran smoothly. Their ability to handle real-time challenges, such as adjusting schedules or assisting guests with specific needs, demonstrated a level of professionalism and readiness for the demands of the hospitality industry. This hands-on experience was invaluable, reinforcing essential skills in event management, customer service, and collaborative problem-solving.
